In the 3rd Millennium we can't afford anymore to get excited about energy matters only when oil prices hit new highs!

Being informed and prepared to prevent the new challenges before they materialize is a requirement in all public facilities maintenance departments across Ohio. OPFMA 2007 Conference provides a forum to present and discuss aspects of energy efficiency, renewable energy, updated technology and solutions, protecting the environment as well as health and safety policies - regulatory legislations and codes guideline.

Top experts are presenting topics that match your interests - 24 sessions to select from! Each attendee receives at the registration table a folder stuffed detailed information about topics and speakers to assist you in workshops selection, as well as other info important to you. To complete the educational needs – we invited exhibitors from a large variety of fields. They are lined up in the Grand Ballroom ready to assist your searching for solutions. Visit their booths, ask questions – there is much knowledge and experience waiting to be shared upon request. Network, have fun and enjoy the entire event! Make the best of the conference - take home as much info as possible.
